WINTER MARCH

On SOPTV  PBS

Victoria – Finale & After-Party

Heavily pregnant, Victoria defies the advice of her mother and husband, refusing to be confined to the palace. However, when she does venture out, the crowds pose a danger as a deranged onlooker attempts to assassinate her. Then, give the first season of this regal new series a royal sendoff with cast members and creators. Relive favorite scenes and special moments of Victoria's dramatic story from ascending to the throne through courtship and marriage.

WORLD

POV: The World Before Her

This fascinating portrait of two women and two Indias reveals a world of startling contrasts between urban and rural, jeans and saris, consumer culture and poverty. Rapid economic development fuels a sharpening conflict between tradition and modernity. The documentary focuses on two particularly thoughtful young women—one a militant Hindu nationalist, the other a contestant for Miss India.

For Your Home

Host Vicki Payne provides fresh and inspiring takes on home renovation and design, including money-saving kitchen makeovers, bathroom renovations, garage organization projects, outdoor-living ideas, and exterior housing trends and remodels. Vicki and her team work to select the right colors, designs, and styles while creating today's much sought-after modern look in the transformation of a traditional-style house into an exciting contemporary habitat.

LEARNING MATTERS

I think the teaching profession contributes more to the future of our society than any other single profession.

— John Wooden, UCLA Basketball Coach*

Some might be surprised to hear this from a competitive NCAA Division One coach, but those who knew Coach Wooden well, knew the real goal was to develop his players for successful lives.

The ability to learn and apply that learning defines so much of the success we have in our lifetime. Our parents and teachers play such a significant role in shaping the lives of the generations that follow us. You can probably recall several teachers from your school days right now.

A colleague (and mentor) I worked with for many years in Ohio taught me that education is public television's most important service. Whether it is instructional programs to help children learn their ABCs or numbers, to watching a NOVA program about our natural world or documentaries that help us understand the world we live in, virtually every program you see on SOPTV is educational.

For more than ten years, SOPTV had an active preschool outreach effort that worked with preschool children, parents, and care providers on using television to help children become "Ready To Learn." And, for many years SOPTV and the Southern Oregon Educational Service District broadcast an after-school program entitled Home Work Hotline, which used television to help students with homework.

Soon, SOPTV will once again be working with the educational community to bring the rich resources of PBS programming to the classroom. We are looking for a classroom teacher who is passionate about education and familiar with digital educational tools to work directly with teachers to bring new tools to the classroom. Our "Teacher Ambassador" job description is posted on our website at www.soptv.org/jobs. Please help us get the word out.

With gratitude,

Mark Stanislawski
President & CEO

*John Wooden coached the UCLA Bruins from 1948 to 1975, winning ten national championships during a 12-year period, including a record seven championships in a row.

— SOPTV's Mission —

As an independent media voice, Southern Oregon Public Television enriches our understanding of the past, enlivens our present and prepares us for the future by connecting our community with quality local and national programming that educates, enlightens, inspires and entertains.

Dr. Wayne Dyer: I Can See Clearly Now

In the most personal program of his career, the late Dr. Dyer offers an intimate conversation about what his own experiences taught him: There are no accidents, and all the choices we make and actions we take weave a life tapestry uniquely our own. Exploring the five principles that guided his own choices, Dr. Dyer shows why it is important to have — and act on — a burning desire, why life's lowest moments can reveal our true purpose.

Broken Treaties: An Oregon Experience

Until the 1840s, Indians inhabited all of what is now Oregon. As many as 60–80 tribes and bands once called this place home. Nine federally recognized tribes exist here today. Most tribes contribute significantly to their surrounding communities. Indian populations, education levels, and economic power are all on the rise. But while their circumstances are improving, the native people's history is punctuated with broken treaties and unfulfilled promises. Some unfinished business remains. Shown: Mary Bradford, Rogue River Tribe, makes a basket, 1902.
